DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

a. Claims 1, 3-8, as best understood by the examiner, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gaiser. Gaiser discloses a grip of an exercise device having a main body (10) and a grip tape (22, fig. 3-4) spirally wound around the body to form a plurality of adjoining segments along the axial direction of the main body (fig. 2-3); the tape has at least one three-dimensional stripe (24, col.2, line 26) formed by a heat pressure method (col. 3, lines 2-5) such that the stripe is located on at least two segments (fig. 2). As to claim 3, the tape is wound on the main body where a side edge is continuously stacked on other side edges (fig. 2). It is noted that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987). As to claim 4, the side edges of the tape are smaller in thickness than the midsection (fig. 5). As to claim 5, the three-dimensional stripes reach the stacked side edge and adhere to the edge by heat and pressure (col. 3, lines 31-33). As to claim 6, the three-dimensional stripe extends along the axial direction of the body to locate on at least two adjoining segments (fig. 2). As to claim 7, the device has a plurality of three-dimensional stripes (24). As to claim 8, see the paragraph for claim 1 and claim 6.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
